Military Barracks

New Used as Hospitals

Stockholm, Sweden.—Transformation of Sweden's empty military barracks into modern hospitals, historical museums and insane asylums has been recommended by a committee appointed by the government.

The problem of what to do with the buildings arose from the army reduction decided on two years ago. In Stockholm the collections of the state historical museum have long overcrowded the space hitherto available and the government antiquarian, Dr. Sigurd Curman, has found that the heavy artillery barracks can be reconstructed into display rooms.

In the provincial garrison towns use of the empty barracks as sanitariums or as regular hospitals is proposed and in Sala, Orebro, Yverborg and Jonkoping the committee favors the transformation of the barracks into institutions for the care of idiots, imbeciles and the insane.

Says Chinamen's Eyes

No Longer Oblique

Taomee, Wash.—Chinamen's eyes have ceased to be oblique, reports Clyde Moore, steamship representative, just returned from Canton on the President Jackson. The orientals are standing around the camps of the marines from Anasco, Great Britain and France, wide open eyes appraising the equipment and uniforms of the foreign soldiers. The martial music of the bands at once creates a riot among the sailors, all trying to force their way close to the circle of musicians.

Moore declares several thousand well-groomed soldiers from foreign powers might disrupt the revolution by staging a dress parade.
